CONSTITUTION AND SUN.

Summary of State News.

AUGUSTA.

Pewter nickels are now in active circulation here.——The Augusta District of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will commence its sessions in Milledgeville, on Wednesday night, the second of July next, Bishop Pierce will preside.——Last Friday afternoon a wooden frame building at Quaker Springs, on the Washington road, about seven miles from the city, owned and occupied by Mrs. Sarah Tompkins, a very old lady, was burned to the ground, together with nearly all the furniture and other contents. The house was an old landmark, some ninety years of age.——An Augusta belle, of the colored persuasion, occupied Broad street on Tuesday, and made a speech. Three policemen with difficulty removed the fair orator. The Recorder thought the speech worth ten and costs.——The small boys of Augusta have ladder on the brain, and are organizing into companies.—Chronicle and Sentinel.

MACON.

The Macon dogs hold indignation meetings in the thickly settled neighborhoods on the dog law. They all talk at the same time, and the meeting can be heard about five miles. Thoughtful darkies pick up the boots, shoes and tin ware dropped from adjacent windows, and sell the same at remunerative prices.——Bishop Gross reached Macon from Savannah Tuesday. A committee of reception and a large number of Catholics assembled at the depot to meet him. He delivered an address at Milledgeville yesterday.——It costs young Maconians just $3 to fight five minutes.——The recent tableaux entertainment of the Macon young ladies and gentlemen netted the handsome sum of $453 70.—Telegraph and Messenger.

SAVANNAH.

The Masonic Fraternity and their families and friends to the number of nearly twelve hundred picnicked Tuesday morning. It took two steam boats to carry them.——Chatham Academy was crowded with an interested audience on Tuesday to witness the exercises of the third graduating class of the Girls' High School. Thirteen young ladies graduated. The music, compositions and readings were all very fine, and much interest and pride in the schools manifested by the public.——A Savannah mare under an unaccountable exhilaration of spirits, broke loose from her owner, ran up Oliver street, jumped on the top of a blacksmith shop, stood on her head, made desperate efforts to climb an adjacent church steeple, and wound up by stampeding a crowd of interested spectators who had collected at the corner. The anguish of her owner cannot be pictured. The reaction was too great and the mare is now among the things of the past.——Scipio Harris, a negro by trade, went into the yard of Emma Harris, colored, dirtied the clothes hanging on the line, and threatened to beat her and burn the house. It will be impossible for Scipio to execute these amiable intentions until after the opinion of the City Court is had upon the matter.——The interments last week reached thirty.——On Monday night a young man was picked up in a Savannah yard insensible and apparently dead. Vigorous action with a patent stomach pump, two galvanic batteries, and a half dozen hydraulic rams, soon restored the suspended animation. After a half barrel of cheap whisky had been pumped out the supposed suicide was restored to the bosom of his family. He says he had only been taking a few cough drops.—News.

COLUMBUS.

A small boy named Hyde, fell from a china tree last Sunday and broke his arm in three places. Little boys should not climb china trees during Sunday school hours.——The crops on the Western railroad, are reported as being comparatively clean, and looking finely.—Enquirer.

CALHOUN.

A fine mule belonging to Mr. Samuel Pullian was drowned in Coosawattee river last week. There happened to be more water in the river than he could drink.——The wheat crop is about harvested. Corn and cotton are growing rapidly. The late rains have revived the grass and weeds, but the crops as yet have the advantage.——At a ball in Calhoun the other night the fun was suddenly interrupted by a terrible popping under the feet of the dancers, and which caused some of them to take steps of astonishing length and agility. Again and again were the dances started and go along swimmingly for a few moments, only to be ended by this frightful popping. Various theories were advanced, when a young man, who had put his hand into his coat-tail pocket for his handkerchief, suddenly became pale and agitated. The young man asked to be excused, and was excused, and went a half mile home in two minutes. His dress coat cost him forty dollars, and he thinks friction matches are not a success when carried loose in the pocket.—Times.

DALTON.

We learn that a woman, name unknown, living about six miles from town, was bitten a few nights ago by a black spider, and died in a few hours after.——The prospects for good crops of corn and cotton were never more flattering. The fields appear clean and indicate a diligent and industrious husbandry. Citizen.

MILLEDGEVILLE.

We are pained to announced the death of Mrs. Goetchius, wife of Rev G T. Goetchius, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this city, which occurred on last Sunday morning. She leaves an infant a few days old. Her remains were taken to Athens for interment. Union and Recorder.

LAWRENCEVILLE.

The measles agitate the Lawrenceville mind.——Our community has, within the last week, lost two citizens, who have long been identified with the town. Mrs. Mills, the widows of Judge John Mills, died on the 16th instant, and Mrs. Rebacca A. Alexander, wife of Thomas M. Alexander, died on Thursday, the 19th instant. Both these ladies highly esteemed.—Herald.

An Artist Squaw.

The squaw Matilda, mentioned in one of the dispatches as one of the chief mediators with the Modoc Indians, is a woman of no mean capacity. Living with an American, she keeps his house tight and snug as any white woman could. Whenever not occupied with household cares she is busy over her pencil and paper, has a roll of sketches, pretty copies but principally originals. With a stump of a pencil and the coarse scrap of paper she will take off a sight of an American, an Englishman, a German, a Chinaman, a Modoc, or any eccentric character she may chance to see, and her hands are wonderfully correct and graceful. If she had received an education, or enjoyed any privileges except those afforded by the rudest backwoods, she would have been heard of in the art world. Matilda is a woman of a strong, dark face, glittering eye, slow and deliberate in speech, and of an iron will—a good type of her race.—San Francisco Call.

☞ The following is said to be a sure test of a horse's age: After the horse is nine years old, a wrinkle comes over the eyelid, at the upper corner of the lower lid, and every year thereafter he has one well-defined wrinkle for each year of his age over nine. If, for instance, a horse has three wrinkles he is twelve. Add the number of wrinkles to nine, and you will always get at his age.

☞ Visitor to mamma—"I have some sad news for you, my dear; your doctor, Mr. Quacksalver, died this morning." Jimmy (one of six)—"Then we shan't have any more bottle ma; shall we?"

CHOLERA.

Deaths in Nashville.

Chattanooga Cholera Intelligence.

Special Dispatches to The Constitution.

NASHVILLE, June 26, 1873.

The total number of deaths yesterday was thirty-seven, of which twenty-five were caused by cholera. The indications are more favorable, and few new cases have been reported to-day.

CHATTANOOGA, June 26, 1873.

The weather was so hot yesterday that the disease spread rapidly. No deaths are reported this morning, and but few new cases.

The disease prevails here in a very mild form, and all who are attacked recover if proper precautions are taken. There is a host of diarrhœa cases here.

Dr. Gardner, who lives in the cholera district, says the disease can be traced in every instance thus far to some imprudence—generally by the taking of cholera medicines before a physician comes. They thus get themselves under the influence of opiates, and a reaction cannot be gotten up.

The total number of deaths yesterday was six, of which three were cholera cases, viz: Wm. Lenox, boy. white; Mrs. N. C. Williams, white; Benj. James, white, bilious colic; and Marion McConnell, colored, two years old. The total number of deaths from cholera since its appearence has been 9; cholera morbus, 4; cholera infantum, 1; bilious colic, 1. Total number of deaths in June, 34. This ought not to frighten sensible people, but a few citizens are trying to work themselves into a panic.

A Chinese Newspaper.

By the Quang Se, which sailed for China about a week ago, an order was sent for one million pieces of Chinese type. The type will be used for the publication of a tri-weekly paper to be issued in the Chinese language. The proprietors will be a company of Mormon missionaries. We may, therefore, expect to see the tailed reporters at meetings ere long our leading men may have real interviewing cards sent in to them; the disgraceful condition of our Barbary coast will furnish a text for a series of scathing Chinese editorials; the hoodlum will be held up to the execration of China-town; prominent advocates of the exclusion of the moon-eyed Oriental will be treated to highly offensive paragraphs. But it will afflict us little, for we shall understand nothing that is said about it, and shall, if possible, care less. Wonder if the Chinese print will be a live paper, and steal telegrams, and print bogus reports and sham interviews?

☞ Bishop Vail of Kansas, by way of illustrating the free and easy ways of frontier life, says that in one grave yard where he happened to be walking there were twenty-seven graves, and the undertaker told him that the occupants of twenty-six of them died and were buried "with their boots on," that is, killed in affrays and buried without ceremony.

☞ "Is Miles McCloskey present?" asked the commander-in-chief, as the army stood in line of battle. "Here, General," said Miles, stepping forward. "Then let the engagement begin," said the General. That's way Mike tells the story.

The Memory of Lee.

Scarcely is the ink dry with which was written on the pages of one of England's great periodicals the unstinted praise of the great Confederate chief, when we find a new testimonial on the other side of the channel. The Revue des Deux Mondes for June contains an elaborate memoir and panegyric from the pen of an American woman, who is described by the foreign journals as General Lee's niece. We have but room for the concluding passage of the criticism of this memoir by the French correspondent of the London Times:

There is something exceedingly touching in Mrs. Childe's description of Lee's latter years. Ruined by the war, his property ravaged and confiscated, he passed them as President of Lexington College, at a salary much inferior to the one offered him, and working with the earnestness and self-devotion that marked every act of his life, to restore the Virginian military school—founded by the English in 1740, and endowed by Washington—to the prosperity it had lost in consequence of the war. Hunter, the Federal leader, noted in that contest for his ravages in Confederate territory, had converted the College into a heap of ruins.

"I have a mission to fulfill," said Lee. "I have led the young men of the South under fire; I have seen many of them fall beneath my flag; I will now devote the rest of my life to make those who are intrusted to me men of duty." The same note, unchanged by years. He had his reward. When he went to Lexington he found the College deserted, resourceless, disorganized, ruined; when he left it, summoned to a better life, in October, 1870, it was rich, flourishing, and full of pupils. His work was done, and he departed in peace.

☞ A HEALTHY INVALID.—George William Curtis continues to be a healthy invalid. He looks well, eats heartily, takes his usual exercise, fills an independent pulpit to the satisfaction of the congregation, but convalesces slowly. For this reason we shall miss, for an indefinite period, his charming civil service platitudes in the columns of the popular journal which they embellished; but we find our comfort in the thought of how very awkward it would be for him to recover his health sufficiently to resume them.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

☞ Eli Perkins says the many laudations of young Walworth for having killed his father, have caused some uneasiness in old heads of families, and hundreds of fathers have already left the city.

ENOUGH of the 100,000 tickets issued for the LIBRARY GIFT CONCERT, in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, having been sold to insure a full drawing, and the wish having been universally expressed that the $100,000 cash gifts offered should be drawn in full and paid in full without any scaling down, as heretofore, the management with the concurrence with the trustees, have determined to allow ninety days more for the sale of the remnant of tickets left on hand. The concert and distribution advertised for April 8 is therefore postponed to Tuesday, July 8, 1873, on which day, and on no other, will positively and unequivocally take place in Public Library Hall, Louisville, Ky.

TATE SPRINGS,

East Tennessee.

TATE SPRINGS are situated in the beautiful and fertile Bean's Station Valley, one and a half miles from Clinch Mountain, and ten miles from Morristown, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad, from which point a daily mail is received. They are surrounded by magnificent mountain scenery, in one of the highest and driest sections in East Tennessee, in the immediate vicinity of Chalybeate, Alum, Red, White and Black Sulphur Waters, and, all things considered, we are bound to acknowledge in this, as in all nature, the superior wisdom of the Creator in locating this inestimable blessing to mankind.

MEANS OF ACCESS.

Arrangements have been made with the principal railroad South for round trip tickets, which may be obtained at all the large cities and towns.

DAILY LINE OF HACKS.

Contracts are made with competent and responsible parties to run a daily line of hacks from Morristown to the Springs. The hacks will be new, and of the most comfortable and modern styles, gotten up expressly for this line. They are to meet all passenger trains at the depot, and look after the comfort and accommodation of all persons passing over their line. The hacks make their trips in day time.

Ladies and families traveling alone will be especially looked after and cared for, and their baggage safe.

Hacks leave the Tarley House immediately after the arrival of trains. By this means any Express or other packages can be conveyed to or from Morristown to the Springs.

GETTYSBURG

KATALYSINE WATER.

THE United States Dispensatory, the authorized record of our Materia Medica, classes this water with the most renowned Alkaline or Carbonated Springs of Europe. It far excels any other known in Georgia in its unsurpassed properties. It has never been claimed for any other mineral water the power to dissolve the uratic, or so-called chalk formations in the body or on the limbs and joints. This the Gettysburg Katalysine Water has done in hundreds of instances. Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Kidneys and Urinary Diseases generally, have all yielded to its influence. It has restored Muscular Power to the Paralytic, cured Abdominal Dropsy, and given healthy action to the Torpid Liver. It has cured Chronic Diarrhœa, Piles, Constipation, Asthma, Catarrh, Diseases of the Skin, General Debility and Nervous Prostration from Mental Excess. All these and others by the bottled water. It is a powerful antidote for Excessive Eating and Drinking. It corrects the Stomach, promotes Digestion, and Relieves the Head of Aches. Pamphlets containing a full history of the Springs, reports from eminent physicians and medical writers, surveons and well attested cases, and forwarded free to any address of citizens, will be furnished and sent by mail on application to

☞ The farmers' movement is becoming a power in the land, and the Radical politicians are trying to get an inside seat. Ignatius Donnelly, says the Minneapolis Tribune, has blistered his hands trying to mow his lawn, so as to obtain entrance to a Grange. Garfield is enthusiastic on the subject, and Minister Washburne, who has an eye to the Presidency, has sent twenty-five dollars and a strong letter to an Illinois Grange.

General Beauregard.

Did the hero of Manassas lend his name and influence to the recent social equality movement in New Orleans or not? Has he thus fallen from his high estate? The whole affair was and is inexplicable; and to make matters worse, the connection of General Beauregard with it is "confusion worse confounded." The N. Y. World has received a telegram that exonerates him entirely from the unfortunate business. The "G. T. Beauregard," mentioned in the report of the unification meeting, is said to be a demagogical politician of Radical proclivities. Gen. Beauregard's initials are P. G. T. But on the other hand, we find the following postal-card correspondence in the Nashville Union and American of last Wednesday:

NASHVILLE, June 18, 1873.—To Gen. G. T. Beauregard: You have taken the wind out of the constitutional amendments.

LEE CRANDALL.

BEAUREGARD'S REPLY.

NEW ORLEANS, June 21, 1873.—To Col. Lee Crandall: Just so; to lull our storm. Our "carpet-baggers" must be rooted (bag and baggage) out of the State, or we shall be utterly ruined. The question is narrowed down to one of existence. Yours truly,

G. T. BEAUREGARD.

We give the foregoing correspondence for what it is worth. It is G. T., and not Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard, who thus pleads guilty by postal card. The New Orleans journals have so little to say on the subject that no information can be obtained from them. We decline to believe that the General has been so foolish on the evidence so far presented.

St. Louis Wonders.

Pork Packing in Summer--A New Invention.

Shaw's Garden, or a Bachelor's beautiful Crotchet.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

ST. LOUIS AND NORTHEASTERN R. R., June 20, 1873.

Dear Constitution: We are speeding swiftly home at 35 miles an hour, over as beautiful a country as I have ever seen. As far as the eye can reach, on both sides of the road, are illimitable expanses of luxuriant wheat. One boundless reach of splendid grain fades into the horizon.

This road runs from St. Louis through Evansville to Nashville. It is the shortest route from Nashville to St. Louis or Chicago. Major Morrill, a relative of Colonel Morrill, the State Road Treasurer, is the Superintendent. Mr. Goodnow changed the route for our return home by this road, and the Superintendent most liberally perfected all the arrangements. A better road I never traveled over, and the picturesque farming country, with its cultured breadth of waiving grain, rendered the passage beautiful to the vision.

While riding I will tell The Constitution's readers a few more interesting particulars of St. Louis, that gigantic promise of the great West.

SUMMER PORK PACKING.

I saw nothing more novel than a summer pork packing institution. This is a new idea, just patented and is destined to revolutionize the bacon trade in the opinion of many very sagacious men. Hitherto the winter has been the season for preparing hog meat for the world's gastronomy, and the dependence upon the cold season has affected to a large extent the market. No matter what the necessities of provision demand, the world must wait for the frigid winter to renew the supply.

But in this as in other things, human ingenuity has aroused its powers to overcoming the impediments of nature. Some sharp fellow has hit upon the idea of creating an artificial winter atmosphere in which to cure pork. We visited the immense establishment of Maxwell and somebody else which kills a thousand hogs a day in these hot days of June. On the ground floor an immense room, peculiarly constructed, is filled with a thousand tons of ice. Beneath it are two stories of rooms connected with it, in which the ice makes a genuine winter status. Certain air passages and cute contrivances enable them to regulate the temperature. The truth is that the thing is better than the original, the artificial better than nature's cold, for the artificial has absolute uniformity.

We went over the entire establishment, and were struck with man's novel and daring enterprise. We predict that it will not be long before the thing will become usual. It is profitable. At least Mr. Maxwell has already packed [illegible] Huge hogsheads of hams just cured were ready for shipment.

You will agree with me that this is a novel and important innovation, and is destined to have an important influence on the bacon trade.

From pork we go to flowers.

SHAW'S GARDEN.

You have heard of old bachelors' whimsies. There are lots of them on record. But Henry Shaw, of St. Louis, has given practical execution to the most remarkable bachelors' crochet of the age.

He is a Scotchman, a millionaire, and some 75 years old. He has constructed the finest private flower garden in the world. It has 350 acres in it, and is a gorgeous marvel of a garden. It has every flower in it, obtainable over the world, that will live in the St. Louis climate.

It is a bewildering paradise of floral beauty. The flowers number by the millions. Its cost no one can tell. Shaw himself don't know. It is threaded by walks and adorned with observatories and hot houses full of the rarest exotics. A force of a hundred gardeners is needed to keep the place in order. Shaw, it is said, spends his entire income from his millions in keeping it up. He began the thing after the war, and for several years he has opened it to the public. Hundreds of thousands of visitors resort to it. It is the chief attraction and curiosity for the stranger in St. Louis to visit. And strange to say no police guard it, and no flowers are pilfered. This is the public's reverence to the man's generous enterprise.

We visited the elegant house at the head of the garden. A picture of Shaw represents him standing amid his flowers. Two elegant portraits of beautiful ladies in the garb of a past day represent some of his female progenitors. A huge book is kept there for visitors to record their names in.

A curious feature of the garden is beds devoted to one flower. For instance, there is a large bed with every variety of cactus; another with hundreds of verbenas; and so on. Everything is in prodigal profusion.

It is a curious notion this, that prompts a rich man to devote a great income to one per caprice, and that principally for the benefit of others. But in this very caprice, so unusual and so expensive, is wrapped up his own personal aspiration. He thus makes his celebrity. And why should a man not strive to become known through his mammoth gardens, as well as through his statesmanship or achievements of arms or genius.

Shaw is near the grave. He has, in pursuance of his ambition, willed his gardens to the city, on condition that the city binds itself to keep them up. The city has eagerly accepted the bequest, and thus, through private liberality, gets without cost, a public garden not surpassed in the world for magnificence and beauty.

The garden will be forever dubbed "Shaw's Garden," and he thus travels on to immortality on the successful realization of his stupendous and most beautiful crochet.

THE LIBRARY.

A most interesting place to visit is the "Mercantile Library." It has 42,000 volumes. It occupies an imposing building. It is rich in rare curiosities, statuary, paintings, coins, relics, etc. It takes five librarians to attend to the people. It is thronged with visitors. Files of some two hundred leading newspapers from every State in the Union, afford strangers a chance to keep up with matters at their own homes.

I need not tell you how pleased I was to find a file of The Constitution there, that gave me the first news of Atlanta since I left.

There is much more of interest that I could tell you of St. Louis, but my dear readers must visit it for themselves.

The South and the West are bound together by natural bonds. I find the Western people eager to cultivate good relations with us of the South. I find Atlanta well known, and bearing the fame of being the most progressive city of the South.

I wind up these brief, hasty, imperfect letters, that do not tell a tithe of what is to be told that will bear telling, by saying that while I do full justice to the great places and States we have visited, I find no State to compare to Georgia. A.

The Supreme Court Cumbersome and Expensive.

The Supreme Court has just adjourned after an exhausting session, dating back to the commencement of the year.

The data is not before us, but the Judges have heard and determined a vast number of appeals—many of them (the most of them) frivolous.

Before tackling a docket, aggregating some sixty cases, and that before they had time to write out their decisions, the Judges have determined to take a rest, and not renew labor until August.

The Chief Justice, now advanced in life, is not equal to the task. In fact no constitution can stand this work long, and some change is imperatively demanded.

An increase of Judges will not meet the necessities of the situation. A stenographic reporter will not afford the requisite relief, but something should be done to trim this tribunal of its cumbersome load, and to cut down the rich tribute which runs from the pockets of poor clients into those of the happy clerk.

It is suggested that the onerous costs should be cast on the losing party to an appeal, and the suggestion is not a bad one. Something must be done to abridge the number of cases being carried up, on every conceivable point, material or immaterial.

The lower tribunals formed for the speedy administration of law and equity are nothing but skirmishing grounds. Cases that really should be heard and determined at a single sitting flit backward and forward to and from Atlanta, until the parties litigant die or are carried into bankruptcy.

Some check should be put upon this thing. The court should not be compelled to hear and decide all cases docketed at one session, or parties should be restricted in the class of cases that can be carried up for review.

If things go on as at present the bar of the State will have to reside in Atlanta. Law students will have to spend the twenty-one years in reading Supreme Court decisions, and lawyers will be compelled to give up their little dens and move into large and commodious cotton warehouses, in order to find room for their libraries of Georgia Reports. The court has been for years vainly endeavoring to fit the laws to every case that goes up. In the effort it has puzzled itself, confounded the minds of the multitude, ruined the reputations of a score of judges and stultified its own decisions. The people demand some "Stare de cisis" and "Res adjudicata." Advertiser and Republican.

The Better Opinion Concerning Mr. Beecher.

From the New York Correspondence of the Buffalo Commercial.

The better opinion among "lovers of good men" is that Mr. Beecher will come out of the ordeal clear and clean, so far as criminal conduct is concerned, but by no means clear of indiscretion (rather passive than positive on his part) such as almost surely gives occasion in a world like this for the making and believing of the grossest charges. The fondling folly of some of Mr. Beecher's female admirers, sanctioned by a concealment of wisdom on his part, has much to answer for of all this misery and shame. The uncharitable and uncomprehending world without cannot understand certain grades of loving familiarity, however innocent in fact, on any other theory than that of criminal intimacy. We all know what such women will do. There is some foundation for the story that Mr. Beecher had made a confession and obtained forgiveness. A friend of mine has seen the letter. But there was nothing of a criminal nature confessed; only just such indiscretion as I have indicated.

☞ When Stanley Clay was asked what was the cause of his drunk at the Twenty-third street watchroom, she replied, "We drink Hoddstock, and we know Mamm."

Progress of Cholera in Chattanooga

Seven Deaths Thursday.

CHATTANOOGA, June 26, 1873.

Fifteen new cases of cholera up to 3 P. M.; 4 deaths, all white. Two of them turned perfectly black an hour after dead. Weather now cloudy and hot, which is very bad for it. There are a great many complainings and the disease is rapidly increasing, though those complaining are not as yet recognized as cholera.

LATER, 6 P. M.—Seven deaths from cholera now reported.

Nashville.

The mortuary summary for Wednesday is as follows:

Cholera deaths—white	10
Colored	19
Total cholera deaths	29
Other diseases	10
Grand total	39

The cases begin to assume a milder type, and the people again look for a speedy disappearance of the dread disease.

Miss Eliza Williams, a devoted Catholic, died at 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

As the Nashville papers have occasionally complained of the special dispatches sent to The Constitution or Courier-Journal, we will let the Union and American of the 24th tell the whole story, in our columns, to suit itself:

ITS PROGRESS IN NASHVILLE—TOTAL NUMBER OF DEATHS.

In order to keep our readers posted in regard to the cholera since it made its first appearance here, we give as follows, a daily record of the interments from this disease, to-wit:

	White.	Colored.	Total.
June 7	11	10	21
8	8	10	18
9	7	8	15
10	5	6	11
11	6	9	15
12	7	4	11
13	5	10	15
14	2	10	12
15	10	15	25
16	4	10	14
17	20	24	44
18	11	21	32
19	8	22	30
20	23	49	72
21	20	39	59
22	24	31	55
23	11	26	37
24	10	19	29
Total	190	326	516

There had been several deaths from cholera before the 7th, of which we have no record.

In addition to the deaths reported in our table, we have heard it estimated that from fifty to seventy-five negroes who have died from cholera in the suburbs of the city, have been buried in the country outside of our cemeteries in coffins made by persons of their own color not engaged in business as undertakers. It is therefore probable that the number of deaths from the disease reach, if they do not exceed, six hundred. In the eighteen days during which a careful count has been kept, there have been five hundred and sixteen deaths from cholera, which shows a mortality almost equal to that of 1866, when there was a larger population in the city. In 1866 the total number of deaths from Aug. 31 to Oct. 9 was about 800; and the total number from the 7th to the 24th of September, both inclusive, was 568, but fifty-two more than for the corresponding number of days in this month. The highest number of deaths in one day in 1866, was 70, on the 24th of September; then the returns were made up to six o'clock, and included all the deaths to that hour. The number who died on the 20th of this month greatly exceed that, as our table only shows the number that were buried up to five o'clock. We have heard the number who died on that day estimated by gentlemen, in whose opinion we place a good deal of confidence, at fully one hundred. The history of the present visitation of cholera shows it to be of a more virulent type than the Asiatic cholera, or that about the name there was no dispute. The American cholera may therefore be set down as more fatal than that of Asiatic origin. As in former visitations, the disease is now yielding more readily to medical treatment, and the abatement of the past three days inspires hopes of its early disappearance.

Elsewhere.

The reports from Memphis are more favorable. Twenty interments were reported, on Wednesday, of which thirteen were cholera cases. Only four of the cholera deaths were whites. The reports from down the river are very unpromising. In some cases, plantations have been deserted by the negroes, and in one or two instance eight to thirteen deaths are reported on a plantation. The epidemic prevails at Chicot, Napoleon, Helena and Friar's Point.

We have no news from Chattanooga that is not contained in our copious special dispatches.

A dispatch from Greenville, dated June 24th, 8 P. M., gives the names of three additional dead—Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Pickenny, and Mr. Fred Mitchell. About twenty are sick, and the two physicians of the village are worn out. Dr. Tadlock, of Knoxville, had arrived, and was very welcome.

The people of Morristown want the Nashville Banner to correct its statement that the cholera existed in their town.

The first cast of cholera has occurred in Knoxville. Mr. R. H. Brown, who resided on Broad street, north of the railroad, was violently attacked with vomiting, and towards midnight he fell into a collapse and shortly after expired. The Press and Herald deserves mention for its frank and manly statement of the unwelcome case.

Four deaths occurred at Springfield, twenty-five miles north of Nashville, on Tuesday.

Among the deaths at Gallatin on Sunday was that of Charlie Faidley, a well-known printer of Nasville. Up to Monday noon the cholera deaths in Gallatin amounted to sixty-four. Five new cases appeared on Monday afternoon.

An extra from the Fayetteville Express, Monday last, contains the following:

"Although the cholera has not yet made its appearance in Fayettville, our citizens, in view of the fact that the town has rarely ever escaped its visitations in the past, have adopted the precaution of dispersing and seeking temporary homes in the country, as the safest and surest method of averting its ravages. The town is now almost depleted of its population, and if the prevailing sickness reaches here it will have but little material to operate upon. Business is virtually suspended, dwellings are closed, and localities lately bustling with life are now hushed in solemn silence."

☞ The police station officials at Biddeford, Maine, were considerably flustrated the other night by the demand of a newly-married young couple for lodgings. It seems that they had a tiff with the old folks, and penniless and friendless they had been obliged to leave the house on their wedding eve. They were accommodated with separate bunks, the authorities having forgotten to provide a bridal chamber.

☞ The Michigan News doesn't believe that story about the Peoria man who took so much calomel that the sun made him accend the side of a house until a shower sended the air. The News says calomel and blue pills usually drive a man in the opposite direction.

☞ If we would build on a sure foundation in friendship, we must love our friends in spite of their follies, rather than for our sake. Christian Index.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The Board of Commissioners appointed by the President to inquire into the causes of steam boiler explosions was organized by the appointment of Mr. Smith, Supervising Inspector General of steam vessels, Chairman, and George W. Taylor, of the steamboat inspection bureau of the Treasury department, Secretary. Messrs. Copeland, Low and Menshard were appointed a committee for the east, and today they made a report as to the objects of experiments which are to take place at Sandy Hook.

Messrs. Holmes, Crawford and Devenny were appointed a committee for the West They also presented a plan of operations at Pittsburg. Messrs. Low, Menshaw and Devenny are supervising inspectors of the second, third and seventh districts, and were present by invitation. The committees to whom were referred the questions of the experiments to be made and preparations therefor necessary, offered a joint report, as presenting the views under which their separate reports of the necessary work of the eastern and western sections, respectively, had been prepared. They say: As respects the experiments to be made, we assume that to carry out and secure the objects for which the appropriation was made, they should be of such a practical character as shall, to a greater or less degree, dispose of the various theories now entertained respecting the cause or causes of the most violent and destructive explosions of steam boilers, and which, heretofore, all examinations of the debris and investigation after the explosion, have failed to discover; also, if possible, at the result of these experiments, to point out some protection from such explosions. We deem it important that the truth or fallacy of the various theories held by scientific engineers and experts in regard to the cause or causes of such explosions should, if possible, be settled and determine upon some practiced scale. The report then enumerates the most important theories and hypothesis, and concludes as follows:

"We should state that by the term explosion, as used in the report, we mean to imply the bursting of a very violent and destructive character, as distinguished from a mere opening or rupture of a weak part of the structure, which results in little or no damage, other than to the boiler itself."

The report was adopted.

A resolution was passed inviting persons interested in the proceedings of this Commission and the experiments to be carried by them, to make any suggestions in regard to the character and scope of the experiments which, in their opinion, will best obtain the object in view, and that any communication upon the subject be addressed to Capt. D. D. Smith, Supervisor, Washington, D. C.

The Commission adjourned sine die.

ALLEGATIONS DENIED.

The Tribune to-day publishes a letter addressed to Secretary Fish by Hon. William Orton, refuting the allegations in the letter of Minister Schenck, that the Western Union Telegraph Company is a party to the overcharges on cable business for points in the United States.

THE LIBERALS.

The leading Liberals held a secret meeting at the St. Nicholas Hotel to-day. F. A. Conkling presided.

After passing resolutions that the subject of calling a State convention should be referred to the Liberal Republican State Committe appointed at Syracuse last fall, and reaffirming their allegiance to the principles of the Cincinnati platform, the conference adjourned sine die.

MAINE.

WAGNER ESCAPES.

PORTLAND, June 26.—Two new watchmen were put on duty last night to watch Wagner. About 9 o'clock, P. M., one of them remarked that Wagner was lying very still. At three o'clock, this morning, observing that the prisoner was in the same position, the watchmen made an investigation and found a broomstick dressed in Wagner's clothing, in place of Wagner, and on further examination it was ascertained that Wagner, with two other prisoners, had sawed off some bars guarding the scuttle leading to the pantry on the floor below, made a hearty meal and departed.

LOUIS, June 26.—Quite a number of gentlemen from Texas, New York, Nebraska and Missouri held a meeting here yesterday and organized the St. Louis and Mexican Gulf Railway, electing a board and directors and officers. SPAIN.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MADRID, June 26.—Senor Rabis has been appointed Minister to London in place of Don Meret Y. Pendergast. In his credentials he is styled "Representantive of Spain to England," instead of Her Majesty the Queen of England. All representation of Spain to powers who have not recognized the republic is similarly accredited.

The Carlist leader Cabanlas, who lately had three of his officers shot, has condemned several others to death. It is not known what caused Cabanlas to order the executions.

The Imperial confirms the report of a victory by the Carlists commanded by General Elio, over the Republicans under General Nouvillas on Sunday last in Navarre. Castenos, who commanded the 2,000 loyal troops captured by the insurgents, was killed and a son of General Nouvillas wounded. General Nouvillas retreated with his defeated army to Talls, five leagues distant from the scene of the engagement. The Carlist leader Rodica was killed.

The Carlists have attacked Estella, but were repulsed with heavy loss. They were again attacking yesterday. The Republicans were anxious for reinforcements and hoped the Mayor of the city, Order was restored in the evening.

The government publishes a denial of the reported defeat of General Nouvillas by the Carlists.

The extreme Radicals have risen in Seville and thrown up barricades in the streets. The latest dispatches from that city state that it is expected that the outbreak will be suppressed before the night was over.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK.

THE WALWORTH TRIAL.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth was the next witness, and being sworn, said:

I am the mother of F. H. Walworth; was married to M. T. Walworth in St. Peter's Church, Saratoga Springs, July 29th, 1863; in the summer of 1861 I ceased to live at Saratoga, and went to Kentucky, near Louisville, my brother Lemuel going with me and all my children; lived there until 1867; my husband did not go there with me; lived in Kentucky three years without seeing him; he did not remain in Saratoga; when I went away to Kentucky he promised to meet me there; where he went to I don't know; during the first winter he was in Washington, and afterwards was in Saratoga; three years after I first went to Kentucky, my husband came to see me, and remained for about six weeks; I next saw him in Saratoga the following summer and stayed there about a week; in December following, at which time my husband was with me—Frank being then in Louisville—at the urgent request of Mansfield T. Walworth, I came to New York, to my house in Twenty-third street—all of my children being with me. Mrs. Walworth continued, saying: On the 26th of January, 1871, the final seperation took place, since which time she has not seen her husband; on the 8th of April, 1871, a decree of seperation was pronounced; in July following, the decree was modified to allow Mr. Walworth to see his children; once a month afterwards I went to the old homestead at Saratoga and have remained there ever since with my children; Mr. Walworth addressed me by letter very frequently after our separation; after I left him my youngest child was born; being delicate from its birth, died in January, 1872; Mr. Walworth never came near my house and never saw his youngest child; I did not always receive his letters; for the first two or three months I did, but after that it was only occasionally that I received them; some of his letters never reached me; there was no male person in my house who could protect me except my son; Clarence Walworth spoke to me on Thursday before the occurrence about taking Frank with him to Europe; I told Frank of it that evening; he seemed gratified, but said he should think of it. He gave a qualified assent to the proposal on Friday; went fishing with his younger brother to Saratoga Lake; returned about six in the evening and retired early on Saturday. He was arranging his clothes and books and other things, and went swinging in the grove on Sunday; he slept until late; some young friends of his called in the afternoon, and they went to walk in the woods; he wrote letters on that day and asked me for some note paper, which I gave him; on Monday morning I came down early, and seeing Frank in the hall said, "you are up early;" he made some casual reply and went out the front door; I thought he had gone to the springs, and at the breakfast table asked why he did not return; some one said he had gone away and left a message that if he was not back to supper he would not be home that day; I then went to his room, and on looking around found an empty envelope in the hand-writing of M. T. Walworth; I immediately telegraphed to father Walworth and to Judge Barbour, but could ascertain nothing about him; then believed he had gone to Troy; the envelope she found was produced, it was postmarked May 30th.

RECESS.

After recess Mrs. Walworth was again on the stand and identified the document, which proved to be the stipulation modifying the decree of the divorce signed by her, and said she had a counterpart of it signed by Mr. Walworth; while she lived with M. T. Walworth he always carried a pistol. Witness was then shown two letters from deceased; one on Saturday, May 31, two days before the murder, and the other in August, 1872. The former was sent inclosed in an envelope to Rev. C. E. Walworth, in Albany. The letters were offered in evidence.

Phelps said he should object to all letters dated in August, but not the one for May.

The letter was then read. It ran as follows:

"One o'clock in the morning, May 30. Prepare yourself for the inevitable. I am getting over my wasting fever. I am going to call on my children. My heart is starving for that caress. I shall see them peacefully if I can, but with a tragedy if I must, keep Frank Walworth out of my way; you have taught him to hate me; beware that you do not rouse the frenzy that is within me; I want to see my children; there is a reasonable way to lead me now; I am going to see my children; I am a broken hearted desperado; save this letter for the lawyers and courts if you please; God is my lawyer now; not the remorseless, brutal God that Eliza Backus and C. B. Walworth worships.

(Signed) M. T. WALWORTH, A. M.

THE BILLIARD MATCH.

In the ninth game of the series in the international billiard tournament this evening between Maurice Daly and Albert Garnier in 33 innings, Garnier made a run of 113—the highest so far in the tournament—Ubassy's highest being only 98. After Garnier had passed this number the excitement among the audience grew most intense, and each subsequent play was greeted with cheers. The score then stood: Garnier 299, Daly 235. Daly, however, soon forged ahead, and at the 39th inning was 290 to Garnier's 274. The latter, however, ran out in 33 innings.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

MAYOR'S OFFICE, JUNE 27, 1873.

To the Citizens of Atlanta:

The City Council of Atlanta, on the 25th instant, passed the following Ordinance, to-wit:

Be it ordained by the Mayor and Council, That for the present the sale of watermelons and stale fruits, fish and vegetables, be prohibited, and that this ordinance be strictly enforced by the Board of Health and the City Marshal. Any person violating this ordinance shall pay a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not more than thirty days, in the discretion of the Recorder or Mayor.

If there is any one thing more than another which should interest the people of a city, it is the preservation of the public health. It is a matter of special and vital interest to each individual. God has blessed Atlanta with a salubrious climate, good water and all the recognized elements that contribute to health. Should she at any time present local causes of disease, the fault lies with her people. To adopt the means necessary to prevent such causes, is the province and duty of those in authority. As yet no single case of cholera has appeared in our city, and it is the opinion of the majority of Physicians that the danger is small. But it may come if invited. In the meantime the city should assume the aggressive and annihilate whatever may render her liable to attack.

The ordinance in relation to the sale of watermelons, stale fruits, etc., as well as all other ordinances relative to the sanitary condition of Atlanta shall be enforced to the letter. I trust that the citizens will respond promptly to these laws, enacted for their own protection by the regularly constituted authorities. It is not the object of the authorities to oppress, but the time has come when the health laws must be respected.

...yard with fragrance. The name is Lillium Auratum,

...cumference, large, white and golden striped. It is a
...new flower, and probably an equally flourishing spec-

...SCAVENGERS BUSY.—The scavenger carts

...To Chamber of Commerce:
...GENTS—Your committee appointed to investigate
...the question of city taxation beg to show that, under
...the present system, if A., a money lender in the city,
...has a capital of $20,000, he pays taxes to the amount
...of $200 per annum; while B., an average producer or
...grocery merchant, having the same amount of capital,
...pays annually to the city $625. The dry goods mer-
...chant, we believe, pays 75 to 75 per cent. more than
...he would pay under a uniform system of ad valorem
...taxation.
...This is certainly an unjust distribution of munici-
...pal burdens. We do think the estates and property
...of the whole population should share alike the cost-
...ages of the city. We recommend the Chamber to
...memorialize the Mayor and Council to abrogate the ...system of taxing quarterly the gross amount of mer-
...chants' sales, except such as may be made on con-
...signment, and in lieu thereof ask them to tax us just
...as in the localities and money dealer, and that outside
...of a reasonable and just registry tax we may be ...subject to pay no more, nor others, than other tax-
...payers of this city.
...All of these things we should respectfully ask, nay
...would we be content with anything short of even-
...handed justice in the premises.

THE COURTS.

Proceedings of the Superior Court Yesterday—Penn Bedell on Trial for Murder—Civil Business, Certiorari Cases.

Trials Before the United States Commissioner—One Prisoner Sent to Jail and Two Bound Over, Etc., Etc.

Fulton Superior Court

Met yesterday morning at half past 8 o'clock, Judge Hopkins presiding.

According to the notice already given, the case of Penn Bedell, charged with the murder of M. W. Rasberry, on the night of the 5th of March, 1873, was taken up. A jury was secured after some little delay, and the trial proceeded with. The testimony for the State had closed and the defense were half through when court adjourned at half past 5 o'clock. We have not the space to give the testimony as detailed by the several witnesses. The material facts in this case have already appeared in our columns. Much public interest is manifested, and the court room was well filled during the whole day. It will take the whole of to-day to finish this case, including the arguments of counsel. Considerable legal talent has been employed, and the fight promises to be stubborn. The State is represented by the Attorney General, Colonel N. J. Hammond, Solicitor General Glenn, and Colonel S. B. Spencer. The defense is represented by Gartrell & Stephens, Hon. Milton A. Candler, Colonel Pike Hill and Colonel W. H. Hulsey.

The following civil business was also transacted yesterday, during the intermissions in this trial:

J A Hayden vs E W Rabbett. Petition for certiorari. Granted.

Borough & Wing vs. the Southern Express Company. Petition for writ of certiorari. Granted.

H E Rich vs Gas Brannon. Petition for certiorari. Granted.

Charles H Pitner vs. George W Alexander and Eugenia C Peters, administratrix of Wm G Peters, deceased. Complaint. Judgment confessed to the plaintiff for the sum of $200 in gold, as the principal debt, with interest thereon from the 20th of December, 1869, and costs of suit. L E Buckley, defendant's attorney.

L. E. Welch & Co. vs. Daniel P. Hill. Complaint in this case it appeared that a judgment awarded against the plaintiff by default at the October Term, 1870, had from some cause not been recorded. The Court ordered it to be placed on record. The judgment is for $150 principal $7 50 interest up to the 26th of June, 1873, with all future and subsequent interest, and the costs of suit.

G. W. Williams was excused from further service as a petit juror.

A. C. Bowen, Frank Mills, W. H. Broxton, G. W. Price, and O. P. Bell, were sworn in to serve as petit jurors.

Court adjourned to meet this morning, at half-past eight o'clock.

The Commissioner's Court.

Commissioner Smith yesterday tried the following parties:

Frank Satterfield, removing and distilling spirituous liquors unlawfully. Committed in default of bond of $400. Hill and Conley for the defense.

James Smith and T A Morris, both of Atlanta, were required to give bonds of $4 0 each for their appearance before the Federal Court. They are charged with assisting in the removal of distilled spirits unlawfully. John A Wimpey represented the defense.

The Commissioner has no cases before him for today.

The Justices' Courts

Were unusually dull yesterday.

In the seduction case, to which we alluded in our last edition, Justice Hammond rendered a decision discharging the defendant.

The possessory warrant case pending before Justice Munday between Harvey O'Shields and his wife has been continued on account of the sickness of one of the counsel employed. The case will be tried this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Station House Report.

For one day at least this year there were no arrests. Up to ten o'clock last night not a solitary prisoner of any kind or color had been brought to this peaceful resort. The police attribute the panic in their business to fears of the cholera. If this be true cholera is a blessing in one respect, if it be a curse in another.

NEWNAN.—Newnan is naturally a beautiful place. Within its limits are some of the handsomest private residences in the State. We were particularly struck with the "sign-manual" of cultivated and refined womanhood at nearly every dwelling. Handsome flower gardens, large collections of green house plants, hot houses—all attested the fact the presiding genius of the establishment was a woman. The people of Newnan are eminently independent and social. Their hospitality is frank and lavish.

To enumerate its attractive places would require too much space. But we can vouch for the truth of the statement that the Newnan girls are pretty. Having seen their perfection with our own eyes we can say with the Queen of Sheba, "the half has not been told us." (Some of them are desperately fond of Bird and Berry Pies, while others incline to Martin Pies of the Bowdon brand.)

College Temple grounds are ornamented with shrubbery, flowers, and fruit trees. Seven acres are under fence. The temple, laboratory and boarding houses, are well ventilated and adapted for the purposes. The laboratory is supplied with all kinds of scientific instruments and philosophical apparatus. It is like a "Home" for the scholars. They are taught to think. Their thought power is cultivated, and all their higher faculties drawn out.

At the reception Wednesday night one could not well escape being unwilling listeners to tender scenes. One between the popular, fun loving belle of Campbell county and a sighing swain who, a deep blonde, (side whiskers) tried to win "lady fair" by exhibiting to her the portraits of his ancestors for several generations (was it to disprove Darwinism,) his looks revealing far more than words could the intensity of his passion. Her answer will not be given until she returns from Long Branch!

Two West End belles attracted a large share of attention, and we anticipate a lively increase of receipts on the Atlanta and West Point Road, from passengers from that section, visiting West End Springs for their health!

C. Robinson, the prince of caterers, keeps a splendid table and accommodations, and looks as fresh as he did in "auld lang syne."

Dr. J. W. Wiley has been quite ill. He says it was cholera morbus, but all know that there is nothing morbid about him, but that it is the gout!

The Reporter enjoyed the elegant hospitalities of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sargent and daughter. Such was the real pleasure, fun and enjoyment experienced there that we long to go back and witness a repetition of the soiree of wit—(big and little) which cannot be dimmed by the "widow's lamentations" or increased by the sand box song. Well, when do may "Sing" and "Mamie" be there, all abloom with health, and little Harry as generous with his sugar plums and goobers as ever.

A QUIET HOME.—The Madison Square House, on the corner of Twenty-first street and Broadway, though well known, has from its neglected condition for some time been an undesirable residence. Last November it underwent a change. Mr. B. R. Criticoden, late proprietor of the Kimball House, of Atlanta, Georgia, and formerly of the St. James Hotel of this city, gave it a thorough renovation. Several alterations in the interior were made which rendered it an attractive hotel to those seeking quiet and seclusion. The office having been removed, it has no longer that bustling and public air usually belonging to a hotel.

Mr. Criticoden has improved upon the original plan of the house by changing some of the rooms, adding to the comfort of his guests. Every convenience to be found in a larger hotel may be secured here. The affairs of the house have gradually improved ever since its opening in January. It will be found by summer tourists visiting New York, and by families seeking a pleasant home for the autumn, a comfortable residence. Its ventilation is good, the halls and corridors being supplied with windows that admit the fresh breeze. The entrance to the hotel is on Twenty-first street, between Broadway and Fifth avenues, thus ensuring privacy and convenience to guests.

The location is an excellent one for business men, convenient to various lines of cars and stages. The necessity for such a house as this has been felt by many in New York. Although the majority of people prefer places of a more public character, there are many who wish to live apart from the confusion and noise—who dislike to be disturbed in their private life by the annoyances of larger hotels. These will appreciate a quiet home like this. Without the responsibility of housekeeping, and with the assurance that every want shall be administered to, one can find here a very pleasant home.

Besides the advantages of this house for business men and as a quiet home, it has the recommendation of one of the most admirable locations in the city for gadabouting. The National Academy of Design is almost within a stone's throw, and other art galleries are near; the theatres are all within a few minutes' walk, the fashionable shopping places are very handy, and, in fact, everything is so handy as possible what one could ask that it should be. The proximity of the house to Madison Square and Union Square affords every opportunity for the children's enjoyment and for the gratification of idle demonstrations.—N. Y. Post.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

LaGrange Thronged—Commencement a Big Success—Beautiful Weather—Fine Address.

LAGRANGE, June 25, 1873.

The Junior Exhibition of the Southern Female College, yesterday, was a magnificent success. The weather was very fine, well suited to the occasion. The city was thronged with people from all parts of the State. Such an array of beauty, resident and transient, was scarcely ever seen collected in Georgia. The beautiful flower garden of Mrs. Ferrill is the centre of attraction in the interim, between the exercises.

The music on the occasion was grand, and supplied by some of the best professional and amateur talent in the country.

The "Juniors" read their compositions exceedingly well and acquitted themselves with eclat. The compositions on "Man Make Money and Women Keep it," and "Coquetry" were note-worthy efforts.

The following are the subjects and the names of the Junior readers:

The annual address by H. G. McCall, Esq., was an able effort, delivered with perfect ease, and making a fine impression on the audience. It was replete with brilliant gems of thought, and terse sentences of rare beauty. The diction and line of thought was pre-eminently grand.

As I write this the exercises of to-day are beginning. So I must close, and if possible, will send you another letter this afternoon. I omitted to state that Colonel Jack Boyd and Mr. Kendrick, of Atlanta, are here and are general favorites with the fair sex.

COLLEGE TEMPLE.

Twenty-First Annual Commencement—Three Days Intellectual Feast—Immense Crowds—Newman Crowded—Fine Arts, Exhibition, Etc., Etc.

The twenty-first annual commencement exercises of "College Temple" at Newnan commenced on Monday, 23d. The first and second divisions gave readings in the morning. The art exhibition, by Miss Fannie C. Tennyson and class, came off in the afternoon. The hall of College Temple resembled an art gallery. It was tastefully decorated, and some 130 oil paintings, pencil drawings, and wax fruit and flowers placed on exhibition. These efforts reflected the highest credit on their teacher, who is an enthusiast on the subject of art, and the College, and evinces the talent of the pupils. Some of the sketches were executed by children from 9 to 14 years of age. The oil painting, "Rhodestine on the Rhine," by Miss Helen Long, is worthy of special mention, for it evinces talent of the highest degree. In the list of oil paintings we noticed the following:

Rev. A. M. Thigpen, pastor of the Newnan Methodist Church, delivered an address on "Beauty," dwelling upon the Beauty of Art, Beauty of Nature and the Beauty of Immortality. The language, diction and enunciation may all be summed up in one word—"Beautiful." As a thinker and orator Mr. Thigpen holds no second rate position in his denomination.

At night the annual concert came off. Miss Lelia Cowart and class furnished the music for the occasion, according to the following programme:

This being St. John's Day, was celebrated by Corinth Lodge No. 61, of Newnan, Meridian Sun Lodge, at Grillin, and a number of brethren and city residents from Atlanta came up to Newnan to participate.

The Masonic procession formed in front of the Temple, headed by the Griffin Brass Band, (by the way one of the best in the State) and took their seats without causing the least interruption to the regular exercises.

At the conclusion of the Junior exercises, Prof. J. H. Richardson, of Carrollton, spoke an Oration delivered to the Juniors of Adelphi Hall. His able and eloquent address was listened to for nearly two hours in length. Like all Prof. Richardson's efforts, the address was marked by profound thought and eloquent sentences, but the length marred its effect somewhat.

At night the Fairy and Floral Festival came off. The grounds were illuminated and the Hall presented quite a fairy land. Nearly all the fairies in the county were present and engaged in it.

Miss Norah Brown was Directress.

Miss Bettie Long was Floral Queen, with Mattie Feldgen and Lizzie Cole for Maids of Honor; Addie Darden, Della Vance, Lizzie Davidson, Lizzie Hill, Jessie Potter, Susie Orr, Helen Long, Ada Brodnax, Minnie Simmons, Lulie Culpepper, Katie Redwine and Daisy Wood as floral dancers; and the following floral host: Sallie Orr, Mollie Hall, Cora Wellborn, Jessie Taylor, Sallie Sims, Amanda Crane, Ophelia Walker, Ida Whitaker, Pamelia Word, Minnie Maddox, Maggie McEveen, Lelia Love, Minnie Alexander, Mamie Redwine, Mattie Swint, Alley Clark, Annie Wood, Rebecca Merrill, Maggie McKitchie, Eva Woodson, Sallie Lacy.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT—CANDIDATES FOR THE FIRST DEGREE IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

Minnie Lazinka Arnold, Coweta county, Ga.—The architecture of our soul houses.
Celia Elizabeth Cole, Dardanelle, Ark.—Above and below us.

CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT—CANDIDATES FOR DEGREE MAGISTRA IN ARTIBUS.

Nora Irene Brown, Cassville, Ga.—The Monarchs of thought.
Myrtle Long, Newnan, Ga.—Our darling cares.
Mary Addie Durden, Geneva, Ga.—Truth—the currency of God.

MUSIC.

Mattie Bridges, Coweta county Ga.—The omnipresence of beauty.
Hannah Lanneau, Atlanta, Ga.—The absent.

The essays were marked with elevated thought and purity of language and evinced careful and thorough culture. "Our darling cares" was not only original but unique. "The Absent," was a gem of composition.

The essays were all draped in mourning for the death of Miss Lola Hornsby, who died a few weeks ago and was to have graduated at this term. Miss Lanneau paid a glowing and beautiful tribute to her memory which met a responsive echo in the hearts of all assembled who knew the deceased.

Mrs. Lizzie McLendon Bigby, M. A., read the alumnæ essay—"The Dignity of Labor." Mrs. Bigby ranks among the most beautiful and charming women of the State. Her voice rings out in clear silvery tones, resonant and musical, and well modulated; this gives an impressiveness and charm to her readings that captivates at once the ears and sways the hearts of her hearers. The subject was handled with the skill of a master's hand.

Mrs. D. Brewster Woodroof, M. A., read the annual poem—"Rich Without Money." Her voice, full and melodious, and clear and distinct, qualified the gifted authoress to read the poem with that emphasis which its rare beauty required. It fully sustained the high character of Mrs. W. as a poetess. It was such a gem that, we learn, it is proposed to publish it soon. It merits entitle it to this honor.

Breakfast Kellogg conferred the first degree in English Literature on Miss Minnie L. Arnold, of Coweta county, and Celia Elizabeth Cole, of Dardanelle, Ark.; and the degree of Magistra in Artibus on Miss Nora I. Brown, of Cassville; Miss Myrtie Long, of Newnan; Miss Mary A. Darden, of Geneva; Miss Mattie Bridges, of Coweta; and Miss Hannah Lanneau, of Atlanta. The diplomas are handsomely designed and are fine specimens of art.

The Senior Class then sang the Senior's Farewell. In this connection we would remark that the music class reflect honor on the skill and ability of Miss Cowart, their instructor.

Next in order was the Literary Address by the City Editor of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. The address was listened to with marked attention, and occupied about thirty minutes in its delivery.

The reception complimentary to the graduates was given at night. The Temple grounds was brilliantly illuminated. The attendance was large and dancing and promenading was the order of the night. The toilettes of the ladies were en regle.

The exercises each day were attended by large, intelligent and appreciative audiences. The twenty-first commencement eclipses all former commencements.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS CONVENTION.

Second Day's Proceedings.

The Board of School Commissioners met yesterday morning at 8½ o'clock, Mr. Robert Logan in the Chair. Prayer was offered by the Rev. T. R. Smith.

On motion the Convention proceeded to visit the Public Schools of Atlanta.

The members returned at 10 o'clock, having visited the Grammar Schools.

The committee appointed to wait on the Governor and get him to deliver an address before the Convention on the subject of the public school system, stated that they had performed that mission, and the Governor was ready to comply with the wishes of the Convention.

The Governor being introduced, addressed the members of the Convention in his usual forcible and elegant style. He alluded to the large number of children between the school ages who were entirely ignorant of the elementary branches of an education, and, as yet, had had no means of sufficient adequacy to obtain. He compared the costs of maintaining the public schools with the old systems and the meagerness of the Legislature in making such suitable appropriations as will bring common school education within the reach of the masses. The salaries, he said, of teachers were much too small.

The address throught strongly urged the importance of public schools and he recommended the commissioners when they returned to their homes, to use every effort to do away with all opposition to taxation for this purpose, and to instruct their Legislators unless they would make large and ample provisions for the carrying on the schools, they could not be legislators.

Mr. W. G. Richardson, of Whitfield, moved that Governor Smith be requested to incorporate his address in the address he would make the next Legislature.

The reading of the majority report of the committee on business as published yesterday was then done and the report agreed to seriatim, after considerable discussion.

The following amendment was lost, offered by Col. Tift of Dougherty:

Resolved, That this convention appoint a committee of three to prepare a system of State uniformity and regulation and report the same for the consideration of the next Legislature of Georgia, or to the present school law.

Colonel Lewis W. Thomas offered the following as an additional amendment:

Resolved, That the majority report be so amended as to recommend the Legislature to provide for the payment of the amount of salary due the commissioners and teachers in 1871.

Rev. T. R. Smith, of Barnes, offered the following:

Resolved, That the Legislature be requested to authorize, under the supervision of the State School, the monthly publication of a school journal devoted to fostering public school interests. Laid on the table.

On motion the report as amended was agreed to, and a committee appointed to lay the subject before the Legislature of the next session.

Col. W. Pandley, of Bulloch offered the following, which was unanimously agreed to:

Recognizing the great importance of securing efficient teachers for the colored schools proposed to be inaugurated in our State.

Resolved, That we, the County Commissioners in Convention assembled, hereby pledge the weight of our official and moral influence in behalf of such worthy teachers as may engage in this honorable calling.

A resolution of thanks to the officers of the Convention, citizens of Atlanta, the press, etc., was adopted.

A resolution commendatory of the manner in which Commissioner Orr had discharged the duties of his important office was passed; and, also, thanking him for the lucid information and valuable address delivered before the convention was adjourned.

A resolution thanking Superintendent Thomas for the pleasure named in visiting the public schools was adopted, and the Convention adjourned sine die.

Atlanta and Grantville United—Marriage of Mr. Otis Jones.

At the residence of Major R. O. Moreland, in Grantville, on the 25th inst., were married, Miss Jennie L. Moreland to Mr. Otis Jones, of Atlanta.

The attendants were, Miss Fannie Moreland, Grantville; E. Jones, Savannah; Miss Lizzie Renfroe, Atlanta; Jesse M. Goss, Atlanta; Miss Alice Norwood, Grantville; Sim High, Atlanta; Miss Cora Jones, Newton; J. H. Groves, Atlanta; Miss Mary V. Brown, Atlanta; T. J. McGuire, Atlanta; Miss Dollie Arnold, Grantville; Leslie Smith, Atlanta.

The above wedding was one of the happiest and most brilliant that has ever taken place in Grantville. A large number of guests assembled at the hospitable residence of Major R. O. Moreland to give their best wishes and congratulations to the young couple, both of whom are widely known and widely admired.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. A. R. Calaway, of LaGrange, who went through the beautiful ceremony with peculiar feeling. After warm congratulations had been showered upon the happy couple, the guests betook themselves to dancing, promenading and kicking up generally (at least those of them who were not already fixed up) to follow the good example before them. The supper was elegant. Everything that could tempt the palate of the most dainty beauty was to be found in profusion. The happy hours glided away only too rapidly, and it was deep into the night before the good wishes to the bride and bridegroom were repeated, and the brilliant throng broke up.

As will be seen from the list of attendants, Atlanta was well represented upon the occasion. Of our ladies we will only say they looked unutterably lovely. The gentlemen also bravely held their own against all others.

Yesterday Mr. Jones and his accomplished bride returned to this city and are now at the Kimball House. With their many friends we extend our hearty good wishes to them. May the sun ever shine upon their pathway in life. This marriage will be a strong link in the friendship and good feeling that heretofore existed between Atlanta and Grantville.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION

"Dear Father, Come Home."

[From the San Francisco Call.]

Postmaster Billings, of Santa Clara, has received the following letter. It tells its own sad story:

"To the Postmaster of Santa Clara:

"Will you be so kind as to inquire if there is such a man as George Ray in your city; or where he is if he has left Santa Clara? He is about thirty-seven years old, dark eyes and hair, not very tall, and is a carpenter by trade. He is my dear father, and we have not heard a word from him for over two years. Ma is left with five children, and I am the oldest, and am fourteen years old. Sometimes ma thinks he is dead; but I dreamed the other night that he came home to us, and it has made me think so much about him that I cannot help writing to you, for I cannot give up all hopes. Oh! dear Mr. Postmaster! will you do this favor for a poor homeless girl? and you shall have many warm thanks. If you can see him, or hear where he is, will you be so good as to send him this letter? Will you please answer? Yours, truly."

"MY DEAR, DEAR PA: How can I tell you how sad my heart is while I write to you, not knowing whether you are dead or alive. Do you love us any more? Why is it that we do not hear from you any more? If you are sick and discouraged, we will try and help you to come home, and then we will work and take care of you. Oh, how hard it is to live as we do, now that the children are all separated! Willie is at the State Reform School in Lancaster, in this State, and ma does not have to pay his board; a man in Berlin has adopted Frankie as his daughter, and a rich farmer in the country has Libbie as his child, and Henry is at Fredericksburg. I am working for wages in a small family in Massillon. Ma has learned the dressmaker's trade and sews by the day in this city, and helps me all she can. She has been working in Fulton for the last two weeks, and will be there for some time. It is hard to have no home, no pa to love us—and oh, do take pity on us, and come back! We will receive you with open arms. And how happy we will be to have you with us, as you have been once. Oh, pa, do write and tell us if you love us still. Your sorrowful daughter,

"EMMA A. RAY,
Massillon, Stark county, O."

A Mammoth Organ—Boston to be Eclipsed.

Mr. Thomas Winans is building an immense organ in connection with his private music hall, conspicuous for the tall chimney which towers above the buildings and trees of his splendid city residence in the western section of the city. The organ, it is understood, will be when completed the largest ever constructed anywhere, and is being built without regard to cost.

As there is more or less of experiment in the structure, Mr. Winans has been reticent about his plans and purposes, but it is known that Pomplitz is the builder, and one of the mammoth wooden "pipes" for the instrument being noticed on the street yesterday attracted general attention. The "pipe" was thirty-two feet in length and about two feet square. It was painted yellow and looked like a huge smoke-stack.

It is understood that the organ will have over twenty-five bass-pipes, of this size and description, besides a forest of smaller pipes, requiring altogether, it would seem, the wind of a hurricane almost to make them blow. It is also stated that it will be a year yet before the organ is finished, and that it will be run with steam, and is intended to eclipse the organs of the world, including even the pride of Boston. It will be in fact a sort of concentrated jubilee in itself when it is once set a going.—Baltimore Sun.

STOOD IT UNTIL HE GOT MAD.—The Detroit Free Press relates an incident which occurred on the return of an excursion party from that city. Soon after the boat left Toledo the steward was approached by an excited individual, who asked him if he was the Captain. The steward replied in the negative, at the same time giving his rank.

"Have you the power to put a man out of the cabin?" inquired the stranger.

"Well, yes, if he is disorderly, I have," replied the steward.

"Well, sir, look in here and see them, will you? said the stranger, leading the official round to the door. The steward looked at the motley group and replied that he saw nothing out of the way.

"You don't, eh? Don't you see a man in there hugging a woman?"

"Well, yes," replied the steward, "but what of that? Hasn't a fellow a right to embrace his wife?"

"That's what I want you to run him off for," replied the stranger, dancing round; "that's my wife, and I've stood it so long I've got mad!"

All diseases pertaining to them or to the organs, they supply with health and vigor, in either sex, are cured by Hembold's Extract Buchu. By Hembold's process Buchu becomes a specific. No other chemist has so skillfully extracted its virtues. Sufferers will avoid disappointment, failure and exposure by obtaining only Hembold's Buchu at the Druggists. John F. WHY WILL YE DIE?—Death, or what is worse, is the inevitable result of continued suspension of the menstrual flow. It is a condition which should not be trifled with. Immediate relief is the only safeguard against constitutional ruin. In all cases of suppression, suspension or other irregularity of the "courses," Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator is the only sure remedy. It acts by giving tone to the nervous centres, improving the blood and determining directly to the organs of menstruation. The starting drawback on nearly all medicinal agents has ever been that in their process of purgation and purification they have also debilitated the system. To obviate this difficulty physicians have long sought for the agent that would

PURGE, PURIFY AND STRENGTHEN

At one and the same time.

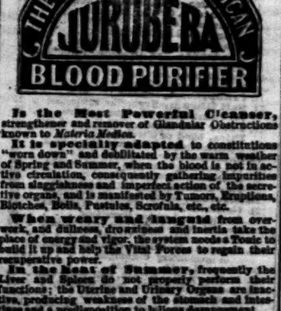
Their research has at last been rewarded by a discovery which full realizes the fondest desires of the medical faculty, and which is justly regarded as the most important triumph that Pharmacy has ever achieved The important desideratum is

Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pill.

Which purify the blood and remove all corrupt humors and unhealthy accumulations from the body, and yet produces no weakness or lassitude whatever, but on the contrary tones the stomach, and invigorates the body during the progress of their operation. They unite the heretofore irreconcilable qualities of a STRENGTHENING PUGATIVE and PURIFYING TONIC.

Dr. Tutt's Pills are the most active and searching medicine in existence. They at once attack the very root of disease and their action is so prompt that in an hour or two after they are taken the patient is aware of their good effects. They may be taken at any time without restraint of diet or occupation; they produce neither nausea, griping or debility, and as a family medicine they have no rival.

Price 25 cents a box. Sold by all Druggists.
Principal office, 844 and 846 Pearl St., New York.



Is the Most Powerful Cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions worn down and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Ringworm, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, etc., etc.

When weary and languid from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a Tonic to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their respective power.

In the Heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'
EXTRACT OF JURRUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all those disorders of the system that require the VITALIZING, STRENGTHENING and INVIGORATING properties of the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND EXHAUSTED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is recommended by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and RESTORATIVE known in the world. Sold by all druggists.

Dr. Calhoun's Liver Pills.

I AM engaged in the Manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last thirty-five years, and has taken precedence over all other Liver Preparations, by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supersede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Tuttoe County Prison for over seven years, what the number of prisoners would be from 50 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incident to this climate. With but few exceptions, they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say, during that long period, not a solitary death occurred under its treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from Druggists, Merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. For sale by all druggists. DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yields readily to this preparation.
